SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1864.

Colonel John M. Harlan, the Attorney General of Keutneky, left this city yesterday ior Indiana, where, in compliance with the invitation of the Democratic Central Committee of the State, he will address the reople at the following times and places:

- - September 24th Petersborg, -Patoka, -Mt. Vernon, - - -Evansville, -October 1st. We need not bespeak for Colonel Harlan a respectful hearing from the men of Indiana. An Old-line Whig, and the sou of an Old-line Whig, ho acts with the Democratic party in this struggle from simple devotion to his country,-a devotion which he has illustrated on the battle-field. Shortly after the outb eak of the acbellion, Oblonel Harlan raised a regiment of vount ers, and served in the field for eight en months, when he resigned in consequence of the death of his lar en ed father, whose unsettled affairs demanded the attention of his son. At the time of his resignation, Colourl Harlan com tortunate enough to have hands to complete manded a brigads. He has corved his countribute their harvest. But the conscription of claves try as a sold'er and as a civilian, and has | wi hout the knowledge or assent of their masserved her in both capacities with unsurpassed efficiency. He has a clar right to speak for his country before his countrymen in whatever section. As for the rest, we may sately trust to his high intelligence, his rare abilities, and his commanding eloquence. We ask only that the people shall come out to hear sistance of their white officers acting as aman-

Then, in woman and not to Mr. B, or he will soffer for their opinion, it was loyal to desire peace even by abrogating constitutional guarantees; now these same radical advisors of the President proclaim that it is treason to think of peace until slavery is extirated. The Union Democracy of the country in this crisis promise that the election of McClellan will bring peace upon the hasis of the Union nuder the Constitution, and the restoration of the anthority of the government, with the Unlou as it was and the Constitution as it is. The freemen of Kentucky and of the entire country must look to the triumph of McClellan and Pendleton as the only hope of an honorable peace, while the success of #1. It is not difficult, then, to decide for whom the people ought to vote in No-

The noses of the abolitionists curl when they scent honosty and independence, as the | the future could be marked out, which would mimosa pudica shrinks on being touched. We quoted an extract from the Springfield Ropub- laws, and provent the violation of contracts, licau the other day as an evidence of political candor, and the abolition organ here straight way discovers that the Republican is edited by 'an old woman," and turns up its probascis as if it seer ted something corrupt. In order to give it useal exercise at a sufficient speed for healthy effect, while its nostrils dilate as if operated upon by dumb-bells, we will approach it with anciher example of abolition respect for decemey and truth. The Newbury. port Herald, which is as true to its political creed as the needle to the pole, makes an honest acknowledgment of the diff rence between the positions of McCiellan and Lincoln as candidates for the Presidency. It says: Lenving out of consideration the Fremont wing and copperheads, we have endeavored to ascertain the position of the two great parties, and we come to this conclusion—that would simply be between the two mon.

McOlellan occupies the exact position that Lincoln did when the war began. We supported Mr. Lincoln then as a conservative an imperilled Union by the disgraceful name Now, in looking over McClcllan's letter of acceptance, we find the same to be his posi-tion. He declares with equal force that the-Union shall be maintained, the law Jexecuted, and the government respected in all pures of the country; that the war shall not cause till that is accomplished; and, moreover, he has proved that ho is ready to risk his life for that purpose, whon his command was taken from him begging that he might be allowed to chare the fortunes and fate of the man he had led. If Mr. Lincolu, therefore, stood upon his inaugural message to-day, the choice would simply be between the two men.

This is the whole truth. McClellan occopies the exact position that Lincoln did when he received the hearty support of all the couservntives of the country, and, if Lincoln had remained true to the principles of his inaugural messege, he would have received such to continuance of that support as would have re-elected him without opposition. Bot when be deserted his Union position, and took the disunion and revolutiounry stand that there could be no Union with slavery, the conservatives of the country rejected him and his heresies; and they will place McClellan in the Presidential chair to carry cut the principles which Lincoln has abandoned.

ELECTION.

The Democratic nominees in the United States are McClellau for President and Pendleton for Vice-President. What concern have he reople of these Confederate States in the rate of these candidates at the approaching election? In our opinion, the interest and hope of peace is not greatly advanced by these nominations. From General McClellau for people can have but ittel hope of peace, other than a reconstruction pence.

What hepe do his antecedents held out that should encourage our people to believe that he would yield ournationality any sconer than Mr. Lincoln? He is by far the more dauger-us man for us; had his policy been persistingly followed, and the war conducted on the principles of civilized variate, he might have divided our people, and, perhap, conquered our liberties. With consummate abilities he clearly foreasw that emancipation might possibly free the negroes, but could not reconcile our people; hance with an expectation or income people above. ight enrich his soldiers, but could not recon cile onr people; hence, with no carnest and honest love for the Union, he avoided those restoration of the Union, rather than the destruction of the South. His policy was the olive branch in one hand and the sword cle, for every line is full of significates.

Whether it looks at the two candidates in the other, to conquer by prover and conclinate by kindness. It was a light of peaco or war, it prefers Lincoln to most dangerous pricy for us; for it McClellan, for it says. "We can make better the amelicrating hand of Federal kindness had softened the rigors of war, our people would not have been subjected to those ter-rible fires of suffering by which Mr Lincoln terms of peace with an anti-slavery fauatic than with an carnest Unionist," and "wa sost more men fighting the science of McCiellan on has hardened every heart and steeled overy the Peninsula than we have in repelling the scriment against our merciless fees. As the Peninsula than we have in repelling the furious but ill conducted assaults of General Gract." Let the true friends of the Union in fact of a difference between Mr. L. and its preservation as the sole condition of ortuente for oor cause. We hailed the amations of emuncipation and confise and the policy of plander and devastation, a eure pledges of our nitimate triumph; they were terrible ordeals, but they most effectu-ally eradiented every sentiment of Union and, arouting the pride as well as the interest of our people, inflamed the patrictism of the whole, until they would have accipied dead.

of the United States; men who believe to their hearts that slavery is the "sum of all villainies," and who roally and sincerely believe it to be their duty to separate their country from the "relic of barbarism." How often have we heard these sen-Now, between McClichan and Lincoln there are many points of difference—the former is a man of talents, of information, of fire area, and areat military experience and ability—the latiments from the New York Tribune, the Independent, and the Liberators of the abelition party? The leaders of the rebellion aro working with the Northern ubolition faratice; the former know that they can always depend on the Sculhern masses to stand by them as long as Lincoln's policy prevails; but should McClellan triumph in November the Union sculiment of the Soulh would have an opportunity for expressing itself without the dread of being subdued by Confederato bayences. The Eliquing statistic loss not require the former known in the latter is a supple, plant, asy fool, a good but vulgar is ket. While McClellan the Clellan the Clellan the Clellan the Clellan the Clellan the Conducted it, and the one by Gon encess that has already attended our arms, for we lost more man fighting the spinned of McClellan the former known in the Clellan th aro working with the Northern abolition faeners. The E quirer's article does not require epelling the farious but ill-conducted assaults any elucidation from us; it shows unmistake-

Thus, whether we look at the nomination is the light of rice or war, we profit Lincoln to More than. We go make be ter terms of rece with an unit-shipery fanaric than with near the Unions. When a more air-sery excess in a war of dictal out "my pinn" than out of an alless. ly that Mr. Lincoln and Jeff Davis are both verking for the same end, the division of the In on upou the bis's of two republies, one fres ad the other slave. These men believe no less that the just powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed, than "that all men are created free and equal". The two postulates are of like importance to an abolitionist.

Buth the abolitionist and the Democrat is our enemy— he one, because we have slaves, the other, because we are disminists. Nor these ill advised mossaras. We have heard of many iostances, especially in the lower part of the State, where negro soldiers, by the asnenses, have written to their masters to send their wives and children to the camps of the negro regiments or other reodezvonses, first the other, because we are disminists. Nor does their enmity differ in degree; toey both hate us most intensely. The Chicago pixtform is, that "peaco may be restored on the basis of the Federal Union of the S.ates'—that is, reconstruction of the Union as it was, with slavery protected by the nominal laws, but wared now by a real sentiment, ogresses supplying them with bacon, flour, &c., sufficient to provision them for twelve months, and also to pay the wives wages from the time tho but warred upon by a real sentiment, agravated and embittered by the war. The reconstructed Union of the Chicago platform would be the certain destruction—first, of slavery, and next of slaveholders. With Lindow a letter telling him to pay the hire to the side of the pale of mercy, devoted to rain und destruction, with no hope save in the justice and protection of God and the courage and lt. Letters from old friends detail to us huudreds of cases of this and similar character; and, while General Payne was in our State, peal affords no reason of apprehension of the tnture. But in the reconstructed Uulon of the Chicago platform we would be deprived of our there was nothing out ignominious insult offered in reply to applications for udvice as to weapons without being reconciled to our foe.

There is no question that between the two men General McC. ellun cujoys for mure of the respect of the people of these States than Lincon, and the Democratic party far more threats. We are nuable to suggest a remedy. General Borbridge, a native of Kentneky, is iu mllitary command of our State as lardown f our confidence than the Republican, and hat if reconstruction were possible it would as the Cumberland river, and he must be familiar with the pressing necessities of his

SATURDAY, SEPTTUBER 24, 3 A. M.

ATTENO AND HEAR!-The Pon. William F Ballock, Elector for this District, will address the people at the Court-bours this (Saturday) evening at gus ghing.

PHIVATE RALPH HAVESSACK - the longdesired and anxionely-looked for lecture of the elequent speaker and gifted writer, Private Ralph Haverrack, of the Louisvillo Legion, comes off to night. The present political crisis, the subject matter, the speaker, the novelty of the occasion itself, has invested the latter with poculiar interest, and, having aroused public coriosi y, we apprehand there will be a crowd of citizens and soldiers at Masonic Hall to-right to hear this gifted private such as the place hes seldom witnessed. No nobier themo could possibly be presented by the speaker tuan that which he bas chosen for the occesion, and to hear it discussed by a mere "nothing but a private" will nttract the masses of the people to-night with a meguetic power. We say, go early to-night if you desire to secure good eeats. To-night may perhaps precent the only opportunity of hearing him, although he has subject matter enough to continue his lectures every right for two weeks, and may consent to do so if the peoplo trge bim to it. Therefore, we say, be on hand to-night. Go early, and we hope all will be disposed to subscribe and contribute liberal'y toward aiding our own brave Lagion in getting out a wook that will ald a new leaf to the sbining lanrel that already decks its brow. The publishers demand $1,700 to publish the "Tribute of Glory to the Ranks" and get it up in bandsome style, but we cannot spect the Legion to raise thie sum among themselves. There will no doubt, however, be generoos citizens present who will be right glad to extend a liberal hand to the gentlemanly author and his gallant comrades. Indeed, we would not be surprised if, after the lecture in the hall to-night, the $1.700 were reised. If it should prove true it will reflect no small honor on our citizens and soldiery. It will show they can apprecigte intellectual excellence and true coarage, let them come from what source they mny. We hope the appeal for aid, coming from the worthy source it does, will be promptly and handsomely responded to by an intelligent, a grateful, and an appreciative community. Once more, den's forget

We understand that a lar onumber of recruits are daily cousing to the south s'de of the Cumberland river, on their way to join the re'cl army. Most of them have be n railed by Ma'ore, formerly of Rarsellvide, and w o rec n'ly took tho oath of allegiance to the United Sates. He has halaca pestil ish dincar the Tennes ee and Kentucky line for nearly a mouth past, and his operations have met with groat success. The Federal anthorities have paid but little attentien to him and his camp, which, without doubt, contributed greatly to his success. His object, as he stated when he first established bis camp, was to recruit a regiment for the Confederate service, ho having been antherized to do so by the rebel Secrotary of War. He claims that he has nearly completed his mission, and it is presumed that he is now trying to escape into the Confederate lines with his men. Such operations do not speak much for the efficiency of the officers intrusted with commands in the rear of our advance lines, and whose business It is to suppress all such movements.

Not Hoaxeo .- In mentioning the arrest of R. W. Field, the Democrat of yesterday says that some time ago ho told a long story at the Journal office in regard to guerilla operations which the Journal published, "and it turned out to be a hoax." We beg the Democrat's pardon, but a reference to our file will show that we did not accept Field's story as true, nor did we publish it as so. We referred to his visit to our sanctum, spoke lightly of his monstreus story, and stated that he was arrested at the foot of the office steps, charged with being a guerilla. Wo were not hoaxed, Mr. Democrat. Correct your mistake.

Something of a Mystery .- A band of mounted troops, well armed, clothed in the regular Confederate uniform, and displaying at the head of the column a rebol flag, were in the vicinity of Lobanon on Tnesday, and at Bardstown on Wednesday. They are moving quietly through the country, and state that they belong to one of the regular Confederate cavalry regiments. Where they come from and what their object ie appears to be a matter of mystery. We have not heard of any Federal troops being despatched to look after the rebel force.

TOOK THE OATH .- Four citizens, just from Allenta, arrived in the city yesterday, took the oath of allegianco to the Uhited States Government, and went north of the Ohio river to remain during tho war. They state that a great amount of suffering exists among the peor people of the captured city. The old story of suffering and destilution is pathetically told, but it has become so common that we liston to it with less interest than we would have dono three years ago.

AMUSEMENTS To-OAY .- The matines at tho Louisville Theatre will present Mr. Barrett as Elliott Gray, iu tho great drama of Rosedale, and at Wood's Theatre a very pleasant bil will be offered.

At night, Mr. Barrett appears as Charles do Moor, in Schiller's play of The Robbers, to be followed by 49 and 50, and the Helman tronpe repent last night's bill-Fra Diavelo and the burletta of the Old Folks Homewaru Bounu .- The Second Ohio Volunteer infantry, one of the earliest reg.mouts sent to the field by the Buckeye State, in command of Col A. G. McUook, passed np ho river yesterday on the steamer Tyrone, to be mustered out of the service. For thrue years the men have served their country faithfully and well, and they now return to receive a warm welcome from the dear friends at home.

EBRATA -In the item published yesterd by morning headed "A Straw" two typographcal errors occurred. in place of twelve indies voting for Lincolu, it should read two. In place of "organ'zed secessionists," it was written "original secessionists." Typegraphical errors are of frequent occurrence, but we seldom take the trouble to correct them after they have once met the eye of the public.

Released .- Bushnel Clary and Clayborn mous Areaciation Course commence on Moa-Hancock, of Webster county, charged with far next. [Signeo] J. D. STEVENSON, B. G.

Headquarters M. M. Department Six miles from Woodstock, Sopt. 23-11 30 P. M. To Lieut.- Gen. Grant, City Point: I have the honor to announce that I achiev ed a most sigual victory over the nrmy of Gen. Early at Fisher's Hill to-day. I found the rebels on the north of the Shenandoak and extending across the Strasburg Valie westward to North Mountain, occupying orition which appeared almost impregnate. After a great deal of managuring de ing the day, Gen. Crook's command was transferred to the extreme right of the lin on North Mountain, and he foriously attacked the left of the enemy's line, carrying everything before him. While Urooks was riving the enemy in the greatest confue and sweeping down behind their breas and sweeping down bearing their breast works, the 6th and 19th army carps attacked the rebel works in front, and the whole army appeared to be broken up. They flad in the utmost confusion. Sixteen pieces o crillery were captured; also, a great man caistons, horses, &c. I am to-night public endown the valley. I can't say how than the property of the control of the primeners I have ceptured, nor do I know either, my own or the enemy's casual lea Only darkness has saved the whole of E wiy'e tilo daylight to operate in.

The 1st and 3d cavalry divisions wen own the valley to-dny, and if they push on the order to the main valley the result of his day's engagement will be still more sign al. The victory was very complete.

A more detaited report will be made a o. n as I can obtain the necessary data. P. M. SHERIDAN, Naj.-Gen.

l will be remembered that Early's commend embreced the Stanewall Brigate c roops, consultating Stanewall Jack ou's corps and was the clite of the rebal army.

FROZEN TO DEATH-AN INCIDENT OF THE RUSSIAN STEPPES.

BY OEOBGE B. WESTON.

I was at Schastopol in the winter of 1861, rick and the Cafe do I Europe, at Evans's and and during intensely cold weather I had passed a good part of the time in shooting wild tur- and at Rules's oyster room, where poor Albort keys, countless numbers of whom, half-starved | Smith used to roign supreme-rumors about a and chilled with the frost, would alight upon the hills of Inkermann and Balaklava, and in their benumbed state would fall an easy prev to the marksman. It was during one of these hnrting encursions that I camo npon a sight which after a lapse of three years continues to force itself noon my memory, though I fain would forget it.

I had made my arrangements for a trlp up the country, taking with me as game-carrier the drift ug snow, sat a stont Russ'an mejok ad la world-wide celebrity ever siaca; and his believing. of shout forty-five years of age, habited in the wirter garb of his class-a sheep bin coat and cap-f czen as solid as a marbla starne. He weed rested upon his broast, the her de were filded across a gun lying of bin ke a jus a h bad 'l' pi hisfat la ap hear: I tried to quiet bim, but he seemed impressed with the idea that the cold corpse would fellow us, and not till we had placed several miles between us and the object of his dread did he regain his wonted composure.

veing We were walking rapidly along through Alms, and this at once confirmed my conjectures. Upon a nearer approach I saw it was a Tartar Arabia, or diligence, its black tarpaulin covering torn, and flapping in the wind. Instantly the thought of what may have befallen the occupants flitted athwart my mind and I walked toward it with fearful fuebodings. As we draw rear I saw there were no horses atthe vehicle, and it must have been there thir hind, and passing along to the side cartain toro it open. It was late in the evening when we arrived at the door of a small conage south of the Almariver. A motherly looking woman arose to meet no and was ovidently surprised at seeing be dethrough from a government which they have hitherto beld by universal consent. The strangers; she welcomed us to sea's, saying, she "thought it was her husband coming up. he having been absent two days. He left home two mornings before, taking his gus with him, and had not yet returned."

Quickiy my thoughts wandered back to the frozen body of the dead hunter loft behind in the morning, inwardly saying, "Poor woman, your husband is dead." A casual description she gave of him in the course of the evening confirmed my snaplclons. Two little children were sleeping in one corner, and with sorrowful feelings I gszed npon them, for I knew that I was in the home of the widow and tho fatherless. In the morning I inquired of her to whom I was indebted for such disinterested hospitality; she replied, "Evan Yarkoff" was her hasband's name. I made a memorandum of it, telling her at the same time that I would inform the police of Schastopol of her condition. Frederick Robson, the famous comic actor in London, is dead. Early in his career engagement at the Olympic Theatre, then a pents. tumbledown, unsuccessful place of amusement. His earlier performances are thus noticed by Augustus Sala:

"The Olympic burlesques were slightly funnier, and not nearly so coarse as their forerunners; but they were still of uo striking salience, poorly mounted, feeh'y played-save in one particular-they drew but thin houses. Gradually, however, you began to hear at clubs and in critical coteries-at the Albion and the Garat Kilpack's, at the Rennion in Maiden Lane new actor.
